Odd Cars on Display at Detroit Motor Show

Thursday January 14, 2010

That might look like a Photoshop trick... but it's actually an ultra-narrow car on display at the Detroit Auto Show.

About.com's car guide Aaron Gold dives into the Detroit show full force, and among the cars featured there, a few blew my mind.

The Tango is an electric car made by commuter cars. It's the only car that might not fit you after lunch, and that's just one of the Weird Cars of the Detroit Motor Show.

And if you want to see the more traditional automotive eye candy, check out the gallery of Sirens of Chrome, a great book we spoke about months ago.
